Child care reimbursement may be available for your child age 12 and younger, if your application has been pre-approved and adheres to program requirements. A child age 13 or 14 may be eligible for child care reimbursement when a child-placing agency has assessed your child's limited ability to care for him/herself and requires care provided by a skilled adult caregiver at all times. If your child continues to need child care, and is age 13 or 14, you will need to request ongoing reimbursement. The child care expenses will not be reimbursed until your child care request has been approved. No back payments can be made.

Adoption Assistance Agreement Extension

Your child's Adoption Assistance Agreement terminates on his/her 18th birthday, unless your agreement has been amended. DHS Permanency Support staff will mail an extension package four months prior to the agreement termination date.

DHS Permanency Support Unit must receive your child's completed extension request, along with required supporting documentation, 60 calendar days prior to the end of your agreement. You must sign the extension amendment and return it to the adoption unit at least ten business days before the end of the current Adoption Assistance Agreement. The extension amendment is not valid unless you and DHS Permanency Support staff sign the amendment prior to:

- Your child reaching age 18; or,
- The last extension termination date

If you have not received a copy of the extension amendment signed by DHS Adoptions staff before the agreement ends, you must contact the DHS Permanency Support Unit.

Adoption Assistance and Social Security

If your child is eligible for Supplemental Security Income (SSI), or a Social Security payment based on a birth or adoptive parent's status, the child may receive benefits from SSI, RSDI and the Adoption Assistance Program. The family is responsible to report the amount of adoption assistance payments to the Social Security Administration. The Social Security Administration will decide what effect, if any, the adoption assistance payment will have on the SSI or RSDI.

Medical Assistance (MA)

You must cooperate with the Medical Assistance program rules and procedures in the state where your child currently resides. Your insurance provider may require prior authorization for medical services. Coverage of medical services is limited by Medical Assistance in your child's state of residence. Items covered by Medical Assistance may vary from state to state. For further information, call your Medical Assistance worker in your county of residence for questions regarding medical payments.

Notification of changes

Within 30 days of the event, you are responsible to report to DHS Permanency Support Unit of any changes according to your Adoption Assistance Agreement. For example, if your child is living outside of your home, you or your child has a new address or a name change. Review your Adoption Assistance Agreement for all required notification of changes.

Reimbursement postmark procedure

All reimbursement requests, excluding Non-Recurring Adoption must be postmarked no later than the fifth of each month for reimbursement. If a holiday is on the 5th of the month, the postmark must be no later than the 4th of the month. For example, if your reimbursement envelope is postmarked by Jan. 5th, the payment will be issued with the Feb. check. If your reimbursement form is postmarked between Jan. 6th, and Feb. 5th, the payment will be issued with the check.

Minnesota's fiscal year deadline

Minnesota's fiscal year ends on June 30th every year. Please submit all expenses dated July 1st through June 30th, by August 29th, to the DHS Adoptions Unit. All requests postmarked after this date cannot be reimbursed.
